ENGAGEMENT FACILITY

Project Title: “Citizenship 2.0 Civic education to increase citizen participation in public decision making”

Expected UNDAF/CP Outcome(s): By 2026, Salvadoran institutions strengthen democratic governance by guaranteeing the rule of law and inclusive political and civic participation, as well as preventing and combating corruption, promoting transparency and accountability.

Expected CPD Output(s): Effective and transparent participatory mechanisms and processes for dialogue, established according to national and local priorities.

Initiation Plan Start/End Dates: September 30th, 2021 – October 1st, 2022

Implementing Partner: UNDP

Brief Description

The project will work with the Supreme Electoral Tribunal and civil society organizations to promote citizen participation through capacity building for the exercise of political rights and the elimination of political violence, with emphasis on youth, women, people with disabilities and LGBTI people. Likewise, civic education processes will be promoted for citizens in general, with emphasis on young people and, especially, for those who may participate in the electoral processes as part of the Voting Boards. The two areas of work to be developed will be: a) Work with political parties and CSOs on political violence for its prevention and control; b) Development of virtual/interactive courses on the political system and the role of the electoral bodies, with emphasis on young people

I. PURPOSE AND EXPECTED OUTPUT

Situation analysis

El Salvador is undergoing a transformation and renewal of its political system as a consequence of the 2019 and 2021 election results. This has occurred in a context in which traditional institutions of representation such as political parties or the Legislative Assembly have very low levels of citizen confidence, due, among other things, to the lack of compliance with their electoral offers and to corruption scandals involving several of their most emblematic figures. Part of this disenchantment with "traditional" politics, can be seen in the figures of electoral support for the post-war political parties which, for example, went from sharing 75% of the seats in 2015, to 63% in 2018, and to the current 21% in 2021. As a counterpart there is a concentration of 54% of the seats in the current governing party.

In view of the new scenario, the institutions of popular representation are undergoing a process of transformation and renovation so that their programmatic offerings remain valid and according to the new times. At the same time, the emergence of citizens' movements is foreseeable, which will possibly become political parties, as these are the only way to democratically gain access to power.

This represents a window of opportunity to promote the reinforcement of democratic governance through civic education processes that strengthen the connection between citizens (especially the traditionally forgotten sectors) and democratic institutions.

In other words, it is necessary to restart a broad process of building a political culture and civic education involving traditionally excluded groups, i.e. young people, women, people with disabilities and people from the LGBTI sector, so that they can participate in democratic processes in conditions of equality and in spaces free of political violence.

Outputs and project activities

Output 1. Strengthened the institutional capacities of the TSE to manage and deliver electoral services more effectively, efficiently and transparently and in a gender sensitive way. This project will seek, first, work with the 10 political parties registered with the Supreme Electoral Tribunal, to provide their membership with tools and knowledge against political violence, especially against women and LGBTI people. In the latter case, it will also be important to work with civil society organizations, since not all LGBTI people are integrated into political parties.

UNDP will also support the Gender Unit of the Supreme Electoral Tribunal so that it can comply with the obligations derived from the reforms of this year 2021 to the Special Law for a Life Free of Violence against Women, which has included for the first time the definition of "political violence" in the specialized legislation, as well as adding a new Special Section on Political Violence against Women. Likewise, UNDP will also support the implementation of an agenda to strengthen and assist the institution's female staff.

Indicative activities:

1. FIGHT POLITICAL VIOLENCE AGAINST WOMEN AND LGBTI PEOPLE. Review and update of the "Guide to guarantee the women's political participation" to include the LGBTI people.

In addition, the project will work with the 10 political parties registered with the Supreme Electoral Tribunal, to provide their membership with tools and knowledge against political violence, especially against women and LGBTI people. In the latter case, it will also be important to work with civil society organizations, since not all LGBTI people are integrated into political parties.

2. CIVIC EDUCATION. Design, development and implementation of interactive courses on the electoral system and/or functions of electoral bodies, with special emphasis on young people. The project will also seek to collaborate with civil society organizations working in different sectors to strengthen their capacity for innovation, especially those that advocate and work for the strengthening of political rights and the construction of a better State open to its citizens. This will also be done through the exchange of south-south initiatives with CSOs and electoral entities to promote experimentation and innovation in civic and electoral education.
3. COORDINATION UNIT. Technical and administrative support through an electoral expert to implement the project's activities.

II. MANAGEMENT ARRANGEMENTS

The project will be directly implemented by UNDP (DIM). This is to say, the UNDP has the technical and administrative capacity for taking on responsibility for effectively mobilizing and applying everything necessary to achieve the expected outcomes. The UNDP assumes overall responsibility for the administration and accountability for project execution. Consequently, the UNDP is to respect all policies and procedures established for its own operations.

Additionally, a Project Coordinator-Electoral Specialist, will be in charge of supporting the TSE with the implementation of the actions, as well as the daily management and decision making of the project. The UNDP will designate the coordinator to implement the project and the costs associated with these services are reflected in the budget of this plan. The project coordinator will be the head of the Project Coordination Unit, and likewise serve as primary liaison between the UNDP and public institutions.

III. Monitoring And Evaluation

The project will be overseen by UNDP management, including its Resident Representative and Deputy Resident Representative, as well as the Democratic Governance Program Officer, who will keep abreast of the day-to-day operation of the plan through the Coordinator.

Monitoring Activity	Purpose	Frequency	Expected Action	Partners (if joint)	Cost (if any)
Track results progress	Progress data against the results indicators in the RRF will be collected and analysed to assess the progress of the project in achieving the agreed outputs.	Quarterly	Slower than expected progress will be addressed by project management.
Risk monitoring and management	Identify specific risks that may undermine the achievement of expected outcomes. Identify and monitor risk management measures using a risk register	Quarterly	The project Coordination Unit will identify the risks and take measures to manage them. An ongoing record will be kept to track the risks identified and the actions taken.
Project Report	A final report will be presented to the Donor consisting of progress data showing the results achieved against pre-defined targets at the output level, financial data, an updated risk long with mitigation measures, good practices and lessons learned, and in addition to attaching the full project document if developed or an explanation if initiation failed to produce a full project.	At the end of the project (final report)

Part A. Integrating Programming Principles to Strengthen Social and Environmental Sustainability

QUESTION 1: How Does the Project Integrate the Programming Principles in Order to Strengthen Social and Environmental Sustainability?

Briefly describe in the space below how the project mainstreams the human rights-based approach

The project will promote actions with civil society and authorities focused on the exercise of citizens' political rights, in an inclusive manner, thus contributing to a more participatory civic culture and enhancing human rights.

Briefly describe in the space below how the project is likely to improve gender equality and women's empowerment

One of the main lines of work is the training of women and LGBTI people for the prevention and fight against political violence. This contributes to a more egalitarian exercise of political rights and the empowerment of women.

Briefly describe in the space below how the project mainstreams sustainability and resilience

The project does not involve actions that could affect the environment and, in general, will comply with all applicable environmental regulations and policies.

Briefly describe in the space below how the project strengthens accountability to stakeholders

The project maintains fluid communication with the counterparts and takes them into account when making decisions, especially regarding the products to be used by them.
