Meeting Proceedings...,

UNDP/S2S project team welcomed SOYDEN team to the meeting room in UNCC Mogadishu. And with exchange of warm greeting, UNDP/SOYDEN project team shared the meeting agenda which SOYDEN utterly agreed with...,
Agenda	UNDP/S2S Project Team	SOYDEN Team
Adelle Validation workshop	UNDP/S2S Project team demanded explanations for why SOYDEN did not conduct Adelle Validation Workshop to date?	Mr. Osman Moallim, SOYDEN director explained the reasons why SOYDEN did not do the Validation Workshop for Adelle. He started by saying that there was clan clash involved by two dominant clans from Adelle district community. It was conflict started with a misunderstanding between two individuals over the boundary of two adjacent farms, but trigger unresolved

		historic conflicts between the two rivals. Traditional Conflict resolution efforts led mainly by the chiefs and Local Authority ultimately succeeded to sooth differing situation downs and created an atmosphere allowed both parts to discuss their differences peacefully. The reconciliation process ended with both conflicting parts agreements to preserve peace in a ceremony held at Hotel in Mogadishu. Mr. Osman mentioned that SOYDEN played facilitator role as well as offered logistical supports.
Final DBPS lists for Hudur, Warshikh, Adelle and Barawe	UNDP/S2S Project team asked SOYDEN director why it does not submit the final DBPS lists for Hudur, Warshikh, Adelle, and Barawe..., understanding the implementation of second project delivery (Provision of the Community Reconciliation based on social under QN/TICE based approach to foster renewed trust, social cohesion and reconciliation) highly depend upon?	Mr. Osman said that combination of factors delayed the final submission of DPSC lists. In general, it happened on causes of wider community participation in DPSC discussions during the Validation workshop on the essence of the committee and what it stands for in roles and responsibilities, the community asked a fundamental change in regards to DPSC members and an increase in number. They said these additional numbers would allow the inclusion of segregated community members like minority groups, women and youth. In particular, Barawe community politicalized the qualification of DPSC membership. They claimed that the traditional settlers of Barawe town are misrepresented in DPSC members, they only got seven members in total, while others got share disproportional to numbers. The last, not least, the SWA/Mol concern on MoIFA/SOYDEN project discouraged SOYDEN to go on willingly. Mr. Osman told us that despite all efforts to reach as well as convince SWA/Mol, it ended in vain. He also mentioned that on accounts of the limited time SOYDEN has to finish the job, he approached to SWA President, Mr. Sharif Hassan. I explained everything to the president, and the president in return gave me positive response/gesture that hopefully will eventually finalize the issues once for all.

Kulmiye FM Radio	Despite SOYDEN's fulfillment of procedural requirements for Kulmiye FM Radio selection, UNDP/S2S Project Team asserted that credible sources should confirm the timing to deliver the peace and stability messages as well audibility/ antenna power of contracted FM radio to reach destinations.	Mr. Osman mentioned that MoIFA/SOYDEN project information officer assured both that Kulmiye FM radio is doing its assigned jobs well and good in terms of numbers of times the message delivery per day and its coverage to selected districts' people. In addition to that, SOYDEN will present the verifications obtained from reliable sources within destined locations sooner than later.
Training of DPSCs/ Community volunteer facilitators training	UNDP/S2S project team asked SOYDEN director the status of project activities implementation.	Mr. Osman confirmed that two different teams departed to Warshikh on 29 th January 2017 and Hudur town on 30 th January 2017. The teams are going to conduct both DPSC and Facilitators training before they come back to Mogadishu. Warshikh team started training on 31 st January 2017 while Hudur team started the workshop on 1 st February 2017.
Financial Report		financial reporting, SOYDEN will submit the expenditure reports upon the finalization of the ongoing DPCs training.
The meeting ended on 12:30 Pm with good spirit, each part hoping to do their best to reach project end goals successfully.

SOYDEN Report

The baseline and end line surveys were carried out approximately 8 weeks apart. In that time, the respondents showed a positive change in perceptions and attitudes. Additionally, in the description of the beneficial aspects of the program, a significant percentage of participants describe the positive impact on their community.

- Thirty-seven percent reported reconciliation within their community or people coming together. Thirty-five percent reported increased community and clan interaction.
- Ninety-one percent of respondents reported that the way they interact with the community had positively changed a lot.

Most respondents requested for the program to be continued or expanded. The survey used self-reporting to assess levels of knowledge acquired. Eighty-three percent they learned a lot and of the most cited lesson learned was types of trauma at 47%. In the future, SOYDEN can develop monitoring tools to check on participant assimilation of materials.

June 2017

The following report provides an overview of the findings of the evaluation of the Quraca Nabada (QN) 6-week program carried out in Warshiikh, Adale, Hudur and Barawe. QN takes trauma as a critical variable for building social cohesion and reconciling communities. Through trauma awareness, sharing stories of peace and conflict and the deconstruction of the cycle of violence, QN participants are meant to undergo a process of healing and a shift in attitudes and perceptions. The program is designed so that the impact is experienced at individual, group and community levels.

The table below shows a summary of how the radio talk shows and debates were conducted:
